

Dear Hiring Team,

I design B2B platforms where several user types work against the same data. At Remuner I was the sole designer of a sales compensation platform and shipped an AI agent, released to all customers, where sales reps and managers consult their commission data and sales plans in plain language. I owned the conversation design and the trust patterns, and scoped what the agent could answer with PM and engineering. Events, with planners, suppliers, participants, and support specialists on one product, is the same shape of problem.

AI is my working default. I built Remuner's component library and token pipeline by writing briefs an AI coding agent implemented step by step; engineers reviewed and merged the work. I prototype in Figma Make. At Abacum I designed the data configuration layer of an FP&A platform and standardised its modeling syntax from competitor benchmarking and customer call evidence.

Xavi Francisco on your engineering team referred me. I am in Barcelona and the three day office week works for me. Portfolio: manel-leiva.com.

Best,
Manel
